Listen to the Music

“Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth.”
(Psalm 46:10, NIV).

We have a friend whose young daughter tends to be a perfectionist and, as a piano student, she obsesses about getting every note right. She is so determined to get her exercises perfect she will practice over and over, groaning every time she hits a wrong note—until she can play perfectly, “Twinkle, twinkle little star!”

On one occasion her piano teacher said to her, “Jennie, you get every note correct every time, but stop ... and listen to the music!”

Sound familiar? We can, like many of the religious Pharisees of Christ’s day, do everything right—outwardly—but inwardly our lives are empty because we don’t take time to listen to the music.

As we approach the Christmas season let us—because of the rush and bustle of this now highly commercialized holy-day season—make sure we be still long enough to listen to the music, the Christmas music. I mean, hear the real message and meaning of the Christmas season.

As God’s Word says, “Be still and know that I am God.”
